Jimmy Epas Atomate

Jimmy Atomate was born in 1988 and passed away in 2006. On behalf of the Atomate family, we would like to thank Bishops College School (BCS), all its faculty members and students for your continued prayers and support which are a real expression of your ability to understand the pain of others - our pain - on a personal level, and to share it in an accessible manner.

You were there when bad things happened to good people, when Jimmy Atomate - who graduated here at BCS in June 2006 and attended Acadia University at Wolfville, Nova Scotia, in September 2006 - passed away in October 2006 doing what he liked and excelled in: playing basketball. You were there to offer us consolation in times of sorrow. THANK YOU!

I would like to thank you, in particular, for setting up the JIMMY ATOMATE AWARD, for keeping Jimmy's memory alive, and for giving Jimmy's example a place at BCS which he loved. From now on, every year, Jimmy's smile will always shine, at BCS, in our hearts, in our minds.

The JIMMY ATOMATE AWARD is an elegant and instrumental expression of your support when tragedy strikes. For the Atomate family, in particular, it is a touching, heartwarming book on Jimmy's achievements and example.

This book is dedicated to Jimmy Epas Atomate, my beloved son, who gave us, by his sudden death, this unique life-time experience to celebrate his eternal life and who gave us our first concept of Heaven, as do most religions, and they should all be respected.

The version of Heaven represented by Jimmy's life after death - through the JIMMY ATOMATE AWARD - is a wish, in some ways, that my son, and others like him, realize, finally, how much they mattered and how they were and will always be loved.

Like Einstein speaking to younger scientists, I taught Jimmy to be a man of VALUE, not a man of SUCCESS. Jimmy passed that test with outstanding mark. I will always be proud of my son. I will always love JIMMY EPAS ATOMATE.

Je vous remercie et que Dieu vous bénisse tous !

In Loving Memory

We'd like to thank you for your support...

Yearbook Committee

After my second or third year of doing this gig, and after way too many hours in front of a computer screen, I came up with the brilliant idea that my last ever Yearbook would be without ...are you ready for this...ANY words! It was kind of a Berthold Brecht-y, Marshall McLuhan-y sort of thing.

But no, I couldn't go through with it, if only for the fact that I couldn't have my final goodbye here. And I'm all about the attention-seeking.

First off, some 'thank you's are in order. To Ms. Carey, a noble sidekick, who slowly became the hero of this operation. To the Committee, my silent, vicious gang of French mimes - they do as they're told, but trying to get them to talk is like trying to catch pandas mating. To Kathryn Owen, who's responsible for the amazing cover and endsheet designs. Always great to have at least one artist on board. And finally to Julie, who's patience and support over the years have been awesome.

So, after eight yearbooks I now pass on the gauntlet to others. I've gone through the paper layouts, the slow tech, the digital cameras with a whopping 4 megapixels, the larger size and format, the full 'flatout' color pages, and the shiny new cover design (thanks Kat.)

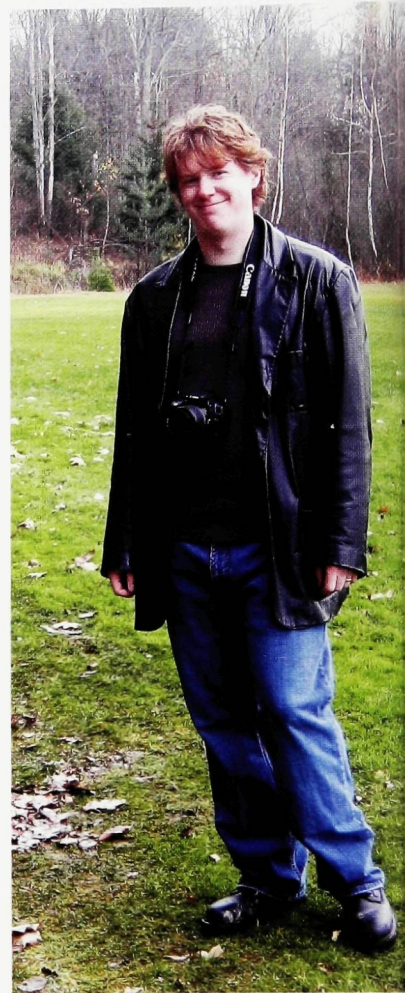

I've been through the dress down days and donut sales, lollipops for pictures, and a three-on-three basketball tournament (there's nothing a Yearbook geek likes better than competitive basketball...I guess...) There have been the fast years and the delayed ones.

I've seen the serious lows, and then - when all is said and done - that moment when the books arrive, and everyone fights for a peek, and you become the most popular person on earth, and each student zips through it to see how many times they show up and the "oh my god I wore that" and the "hey I remember when that happened" and the "holy crap those two have totally broken up, they're gonna flip when they see that photo!"

Then there are the sad moments, when you look through the pictures and words strewn through the pages, each steeped in memories and happier times, to reconnect with someone or something that was lost. It was then that I realized how important of a book it really was.

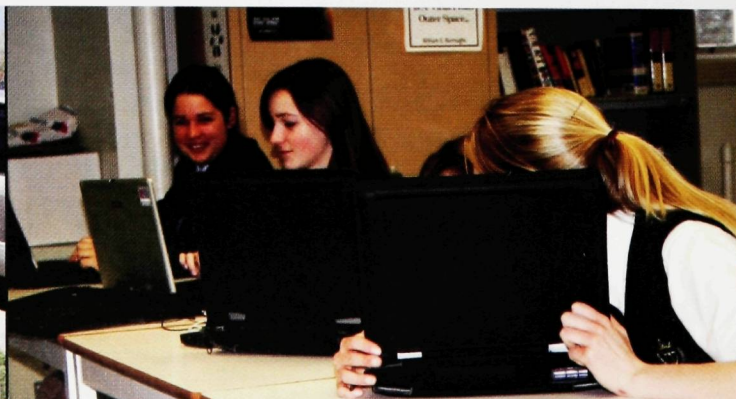

And that is what I lived for, as Supervisor to this phenomenon called Yearbook.

Enjoy your year. Make it a challenge to show up in this book as often as possible. And, one last time: Hold it ... okay ... shimmy together ... closer ... alright ... three ... two ... one ... !flash!

GLASS

So what's it like to be a Glass girl? It's a question many all over campus and beyond have contemplated and fantasized. It is a question no one can know the answer to unless they are a Glass girl.

Being a Glass girl means more than living under the same roof with 34 other girls, and six amazing staff members. It means more than not having to walk outside in the winter, or winning carnival. It means more than unbeatable house spirit or the smell of Korean noodles. Being a Glass girl means being a part of a unique family that can not be duplicated anywhere else in the world.

Being a Glass girl means something different to everybody: To Hye-Joo, being a Glass girl means eating the best birthday cakes on campus. To Alexa, being a Glass girl means living in an indoor tennis court. To Ana, being a Glass girl means not being afraid to be herself.

To Farah, being a Glass girl means having to find her way through the obstacle course of couples on the stairs. To Pauline, being a Glass girl means being surrounded by girls that illuminate her days. To Hotaru, being a Glass girl means being able to be a real woman. To Elinor, being a Glass girl is knowing how to swear in every single language. To Vicky, being a glass girl means living in another home.

To Sarah B, being a Glass girl means running naked in the hallways if you feel like it. To Sam, being a Glass girl means having to check in every visitor so that they don't get kicked out for a week. To Regina, being a Glass girl means being One with every one. To Mel, being a Glass girl means playing late night card games and eating KD with friends.

To Mayowa, being a Glass girl means ordering countless amounts of chicken wings on the weekends. To Megumi, being a Glass girl means being a part of one awesome family. To Rebecca, being a Glass girl means sneaking into the kitchen to make soup late at night. To Hayley, being a Glass girl is like being surrounded by angels.

To Sofia (Olga) being a Glass girl means countless nights of movies one after the other even if they've been watched thousands of times. To Yvonne, being a Glass girl means six years of adventure in the woods.

To Danyin, being a Glass girl means living in a second home with amazing girls who help and support each other. To Justine, being a Glass girl means she can yell or sing as loud as she wants (although we may not all agree.)

To Wendy, being a Glass girl means laughing with amazing girls and her second mommy. To Amanda, being a Glass girl means every day is one big sleep-over party. To Jasmine, being a Glass girl means having 34 awesome sisters. To Luisa, being a Glass girl means living in a place where people will kindly beat her up, even when she has a broken arm.

To Sarrah E, being a Glass girl means electrifying water fights in the bathroom after lights out. To Asrah, being a Glass girl means being a part of a house of the funniest, sweetest, and most insane girls she has ever had the good luck to meet.

To Ann Sophie, being a Glass girl means living alongside tropical plants from different countries which are all unique in their way. To Claire, being a Glass girl means being in a place where being weird is normal (most of the time.) To Alex, being a Glass girl means living in the best couples house.

To Lydia, being a Glass girl means living in the most comfortable place. To Maria-Andrea, being a Glass girl means having Mexican parties even though she is far from home. To Morgan, being a Glass girl means always feeling welcome.

To Min Ah, being a Glass girl is like living in a mini world, where everything happens, but only good memories are left. To Misha, being a Glass girl means having the craziest times.

To Ally, being a Glass girl means not getting to thank Julie and Kat enough for showing her all the open windows on days when the doors seem to have shut.

Grier South

Once upon a time there was a quiet little house nestled in the woods at Bishop's College School...

There lived in this house a child named Jose Carlos.

He was a curious kid.

He even went on discovering first hand that cold metal and a tongue don't go well together...

Because he was so curious, he decided to travel around campus a lot, to look for more knowledge.

While he was walking, he saw a blond boy who was playing squash, named Geordie.

Beside Geordie, Jose-Carlos, saw Francis.

For the first time in his life, Francis was not with Antony, so Jose asked him where Antony was.

Francis said, laughing (almost as loud as Nic Charlton's laugh): "They are locked up in the bathroom!"

Geordie, Jose-Carlos and Francis then ran up the hill outside Greir South to ask for someone's help rescuing Antony and Louie from the bathroom when they saw a Mexican gang.

Pablo, Oscar, Olivier, Juan Pablo and Gabriel were the gang.

Pablo and Gabriel, both with huge hearts and the best intentions, wanted to help, but unfortunately, both had leg injuries that prevented them from running fast enough back to the bathroom before everyone else.

Olivier didn't have enough time to ask all one hundred of his questions to help... "What! They are in the bathroom? How did they get there? How will they get out? Will they miss chapel?"

Oscar took this opportunity to go to his room and get ready for the day in private.

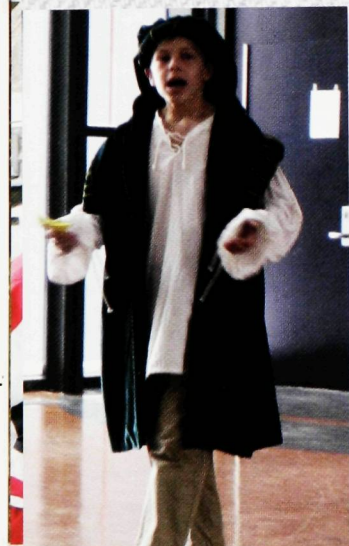

Juan Pablo smiled a big smile, and went on his way!

While the boys in the bathroom suffered from lack of ventilation they were secretly hoping this Grier South Spa day would continue at least into first period.

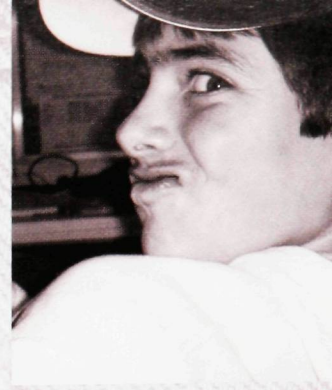

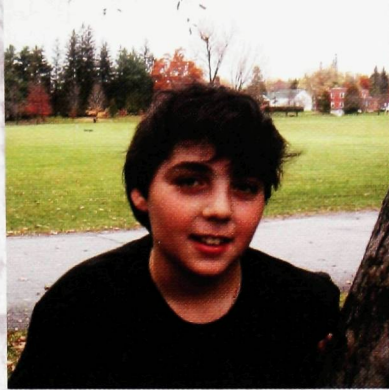

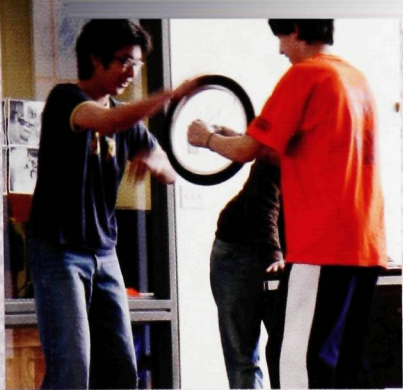

They were lucky enough Bob was there.

He was able to smuggle a few treats under the door so they wouldn't starve.

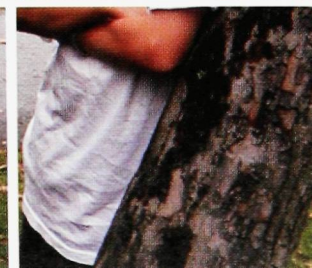

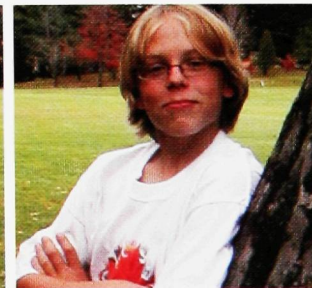

Louie had, at one point, actually tried to make hot noodles from the tap water.

Chapman

Wouldn't it be funny if Chapman was put under a spell by Martians and every room pair combined into one person?

Chris Bernatchez would join an unsuccessful band because his loud voice would overpower his drums.

Allen Roberge would somehow manage to maintain a 90 average while never making the effort list and having weekend prep every weekend.

Guillaume Choe would act like the normal Guillaume but walk more like a penguin.

Ryan Kaufman would be the only person in intramurals to have nicer gear than the first team players.

Dave Mastalir would be the first person to have a smoke under water, man.

Simon Hseuh would sneak his way into the NHL.

Mr. and Mrs. D. would remain in a constant state of sleep RIGHT beneath us.

With the house being reduced to only having 8 people in it, the Martians were able to spend the rest of the year with us.

Upon their return to their homeland (Mars) the only English words they were able to retain were:

"dude she's hot"

"don't worry about it man"

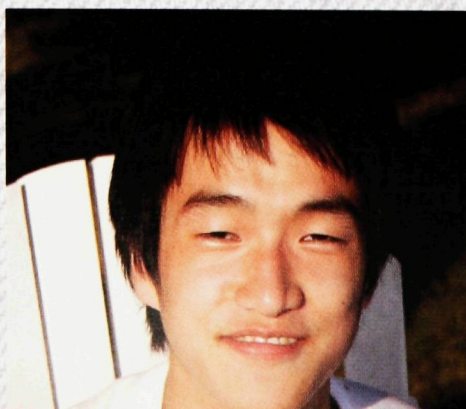

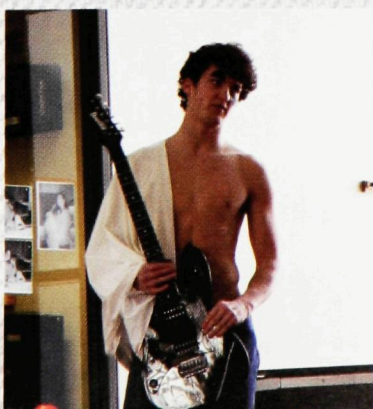

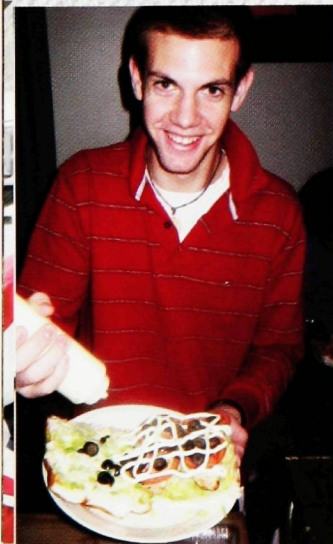

"hey- ho guys"

"whatever"

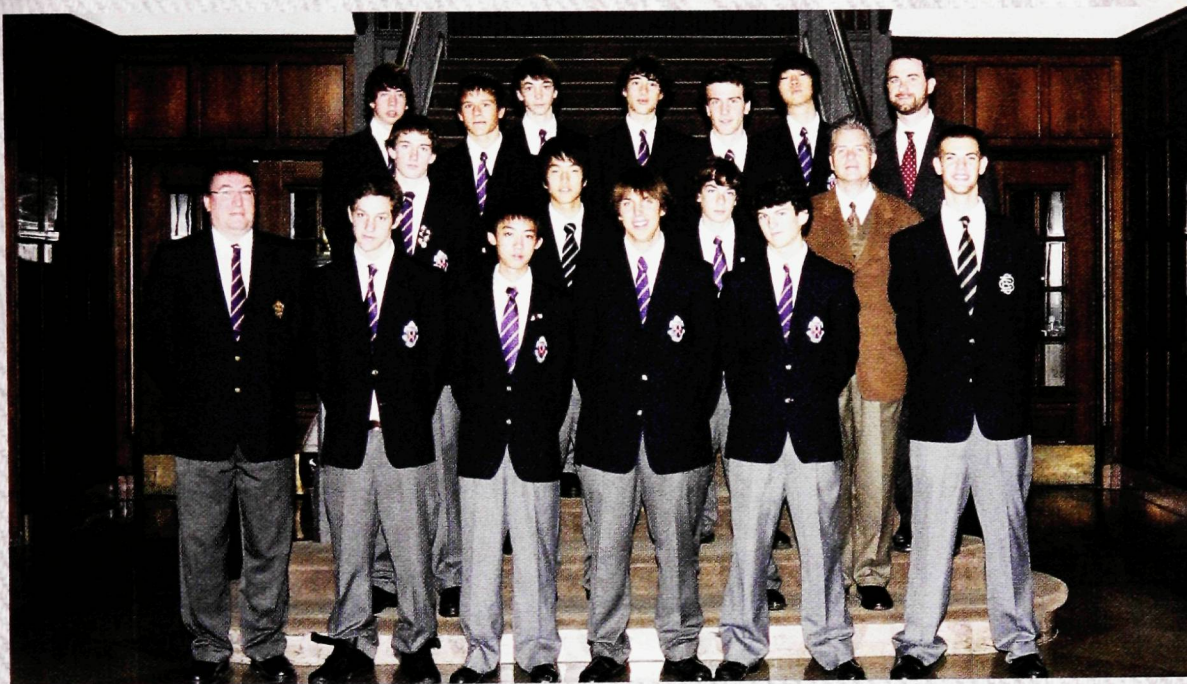

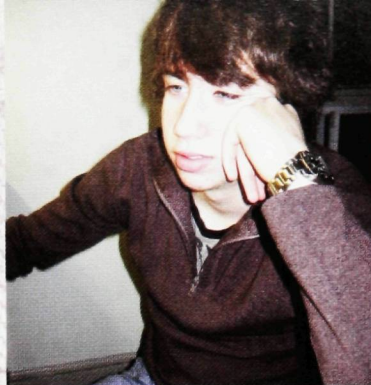

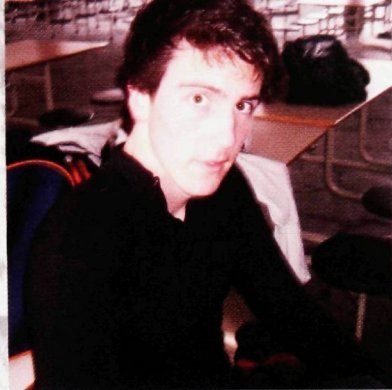

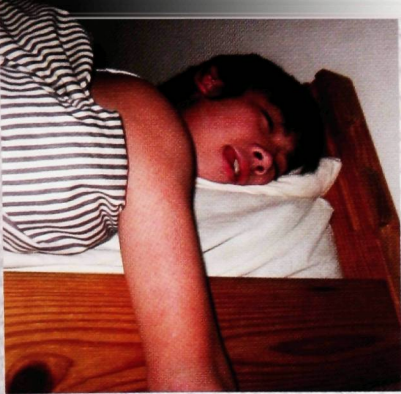

"horhhhhh what are you talking about?"

"stupid carcurus"

and finally "I'M DOWNSTAIRS AND ALL I HEAR IS BAM!! BAM!! BAM!!!"

Ross Boys

A day in the life of Ross House, according to Charles, David, Forrest, and Nico:

7:30: Arnaud arrives bright and early, reminiscing on the Ross boys' glorious past, as he writes "anarchy" all over the prefect room.

7:45: Charles K. arrives early too, waiting for Heather to entertain him in the prefect room.

8:00: Monty enters Ross, ready to hang out with some cute little Ross girl-friendssss

8:19: Forrest walks into the Student Center with a cup of Tim Hortons Coffee (1 cream, no sugar), rushing to finish it before the Chapel bell rings.

8:30: Jordan runs into Chapel, disturbing the ornate traditional ceremony. "Sorry guys, the roads were icy."

8:50: James gets ready for class, after spending the whole Chapel hiding in Ross House.

9:30: David spends the entire math class introducing Pascal Raphael Tremblay (his plastic dinosaur puppet) to Mrs. Harding. She seems amused.

10:35: Brandon W. spends his break with Mayowa, still desperately attempting to prove to her that he has nothing to do with Ross House.

11:00: Patrick gets scolded in music class after Mr. Jackson catches him ranting to Ryan about how terrible the school is. Ryan says nothing.

12:35-1:25: Nick Bouchard, Felix, Nick Bradley, and Nathaniel spend the lunch hour fasting while they gaze intently into their computer screens.

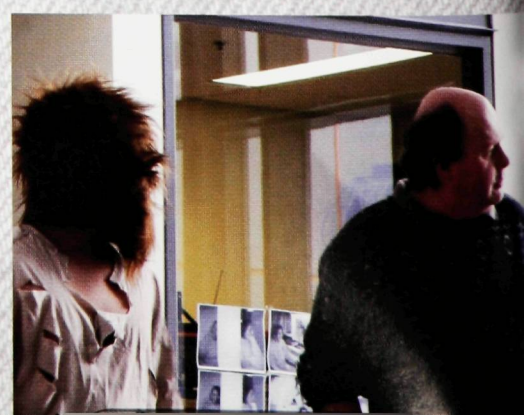

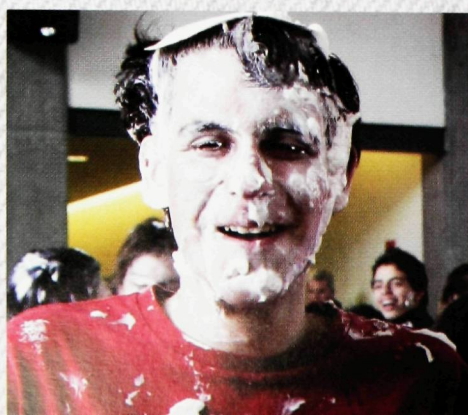

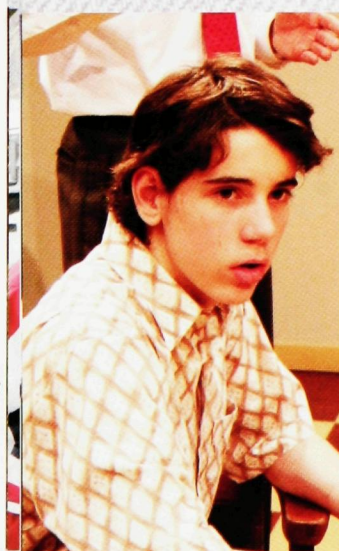

3:10: As the school bell rings, signalling the end of classes, Xavier suddenly realises that he forgot today WAS a dress down day. Antoine mocks him, attempting to impersonate his older brother, Shawn.

3:30: Dominique gets geared up for hockey, ready to impress the ladies.

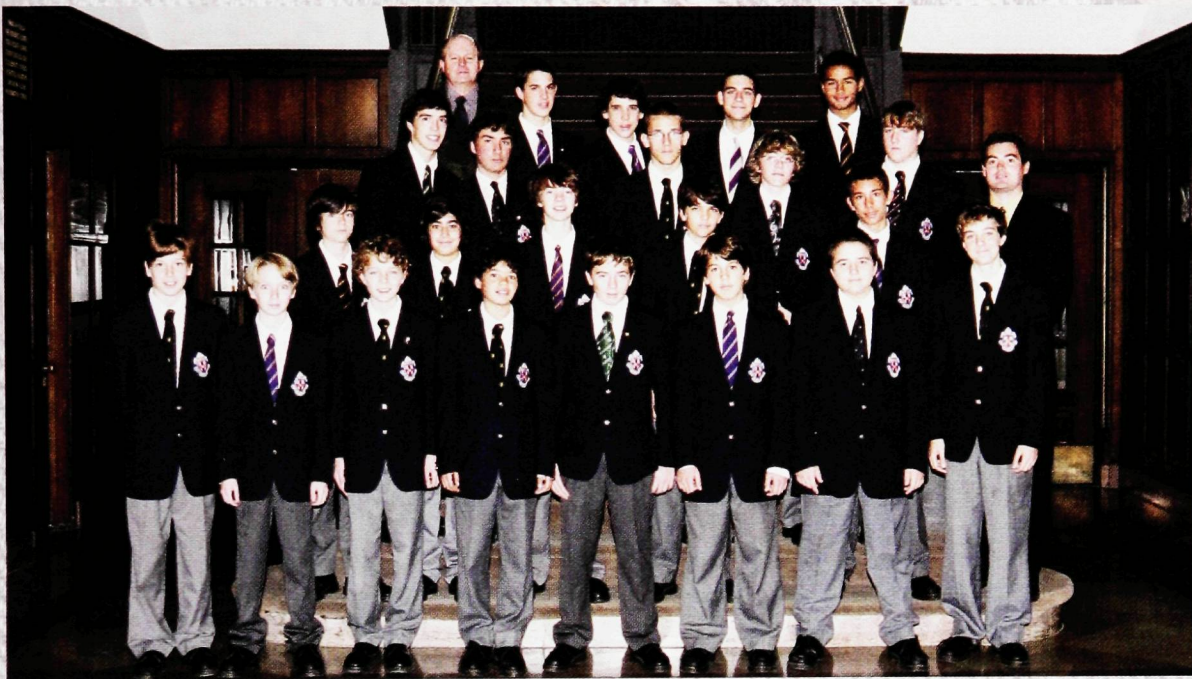

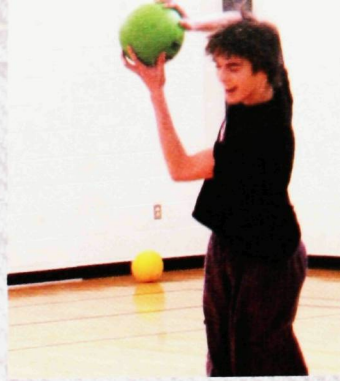

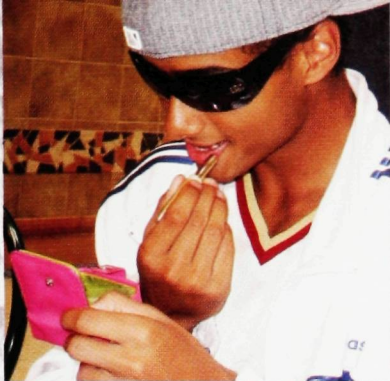

4:30: Brandon M. hangs around the student center looking pretty chill, as he waits for his parents to pick him up, trying to ignore Charles D. who is complaining to Mr. Allen about the broken pool table.

5:30: Kieran and Chris hang out in the school library, proud to be new students at this school.

7:15: Tanguy sits in the Student Center waiting for his older school brother to fulfill his promise of finishing the movie Eragon with him.

Ross Girls

It is a typical Wednesday afternoon and everyone has just removed their uniform and is getting ready for the afternoon.

Chrissa's laugh resonates throughout the Student Center as Hannah and Megan H. skip off to riding crease, giggling about the science test that they forgot, but aced anyway.

Where's Anna-Eve? She's with Arnaud. No? Check out the pool or the library for this all round sweetheart.

Megan V. bounces along, singing angelically, but watch out; she can take on all the South House Boys!

Marie-Lou, our new snowboarding prodigy, runs by. "See you at the 2014 Olympics honey!"

Courageous Brittany is in South Africa, finding adventures to tell Odre, the all star hockey champ, strutting her stuff with her hot pink hockey gloves.

Jennifer Harding, perhaps the only person at BCS who has swam more than walked in their lifetime, rushes off to the weight room for yet another work out.

Sarah-Maud, the fun, flirty poulette attempts to hide from a throng of pursuers behind a pillar in the Student Center where Yasemin Arrrrrr! is taking pictures of everyone for Facebook.

Anne and Keira future actresses/singers/models skip down the Chapman path, dressed to impress. Watch out Hollywood! Chrissa is still laughing.

In the art room Carley 'I'm-a-long-necked-dinosaur' is creating another masterpiece while Heather is snuggled in the Prefect room with Charles watching his laptop.

Suddenly, the blond mermaids Laura and Emilie-Ann burst into giggles just thinking about the Tall Ships Trip in the Caribbean.

Outside Sophie and Aisha, our all-out athletic Queens, prep the rugby team for the upcoming game after their successful soccer and basketball seasons.

Crossing the bridge from Champlain is Vero (aka Big Mac) to see the guys and watch their games.

Flash-Ari, on a sugar high, sprints past everyone, practicing for the next running competition!

If you are ever looking for Julie, she is protecting herself with her cast that she got from skiing into a tree.

Jennifer Harvey, our divine Cleopatra, is putting up "Save the Trees" posters all over school (printed on 100% post-consumer recycled paper naturellement!)

Chrissa, our beloved sweetheart, is still laughing, her charm bringing smiles to everyone around her.

Finally, Mrs. Holland, our House Mother Earth closes the door to her office and goes out to watch our rugby game in the paling light.

SMITH

The first thing you'll see when the tour of Smith House begins is Il Chang skipping mindlessly in the entrance.

You can hear music pouring out of Patrick and Gordon's room as they practice their violin and guitar for the next Pub Night.

Across the hall, you can find Jeff quietly playing NBA Live on his computer, while soccer balls and tennis balls shoot out of Eloy's room as he and Bernardo are working endlessly on their skills.

Andrew is also practicing, but it is for his long chapel announcements.

Jason is learning how to play his fourteenth instrument and Aaron learns that throwing a snowball at Mr. Madsen is a terrible idea, as he is receiving a huge, colossal wedgie from him.

And of course, you can hear Mexican music blasting from G and Miguel's room. G is practicing his salsa moves while protecting the shelves and Miguel is trying to come up with another way to be romantic for his girlfriend.

Last, but not least on the bottom floor, there is Peter, Jae Won and Neil's room. Jae Won is memorizing SAT words, while writing apologizes to Stanstead after destroying their basketball court. Peter fell asleep after watching his fifth movie of the day and Neil is going around the house serving an 'own' fest.

Moving to the second floor, you can hear loud screams from Brody as Kevin delivers another furious tiger kick to Brody's broken leg. Brody hobbles out of his room with his special crutches, after trying to own Kevin.

Meanwhile, Corny is off saving more dogs in the wilderness. While Squeak is nowhere to be found, having been at Glass for the past three days.

Down the corridor, you can here Brian and Romain arguing as to who won their last Counter Strike battle, while Gary is getting his robot on.

Ryder meanwhile is training for his Gun Show and in all of the commotion, you can hardly see Ryota the sneaky-sneaky as he sneaks around the house.

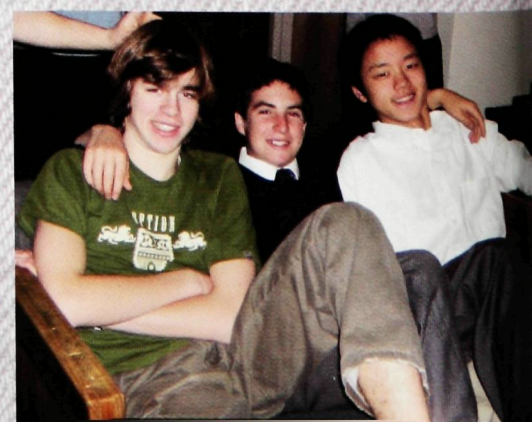

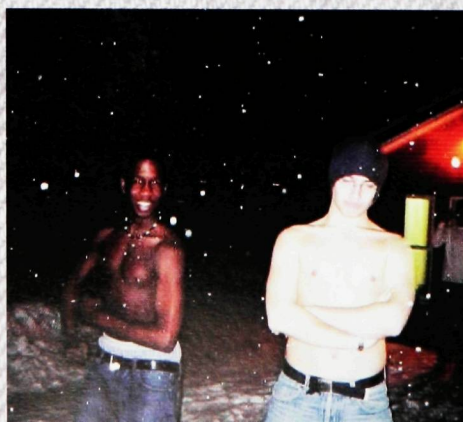

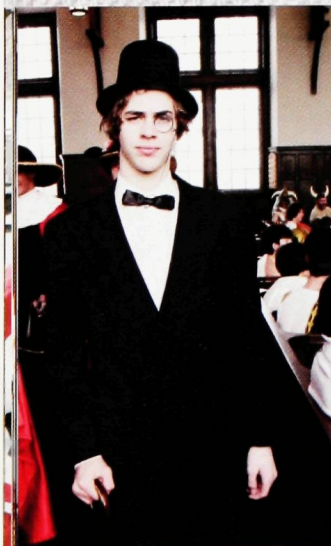

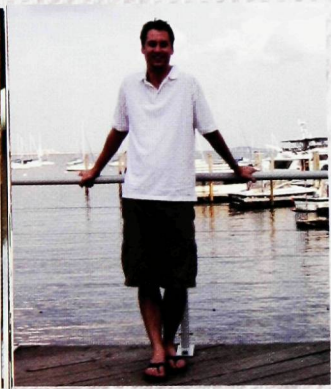

Max is working on his text messaging skills, while cuddling up with two hairy Mexicans in his bed.

Next to them, King Seung has called a Korean poker tournament, where he is somehow always the winner.

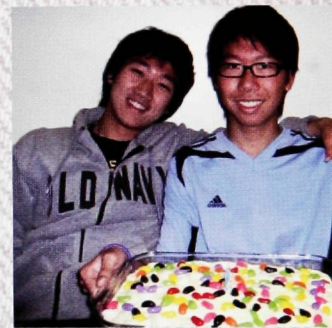

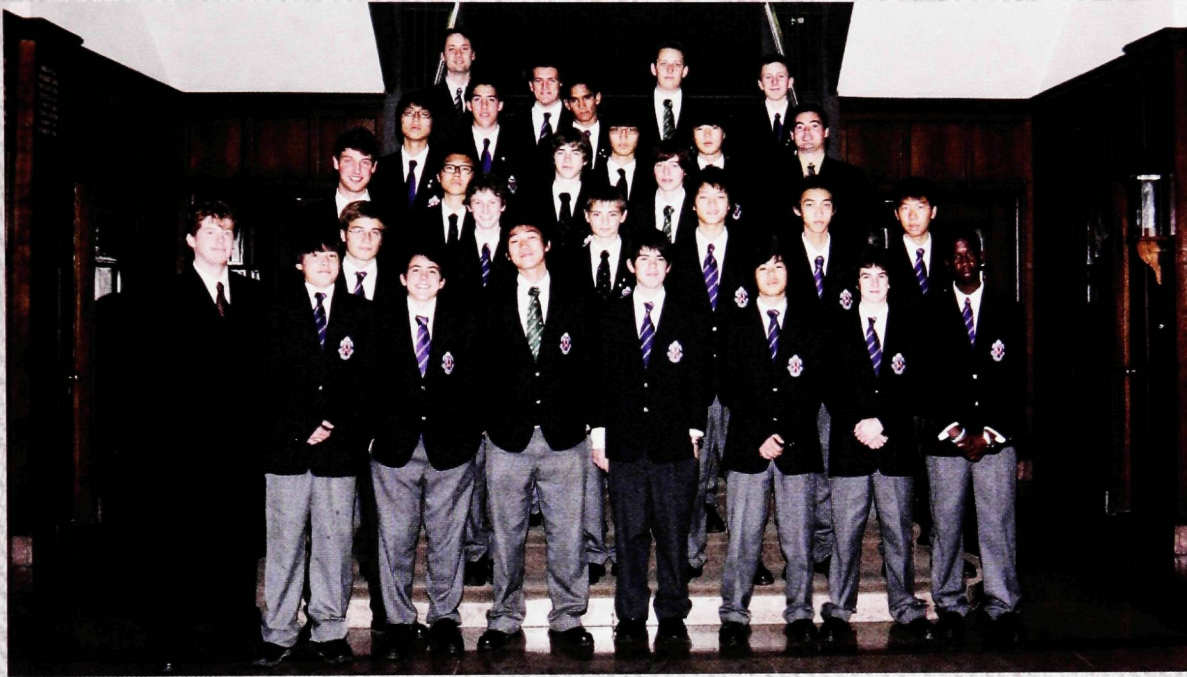

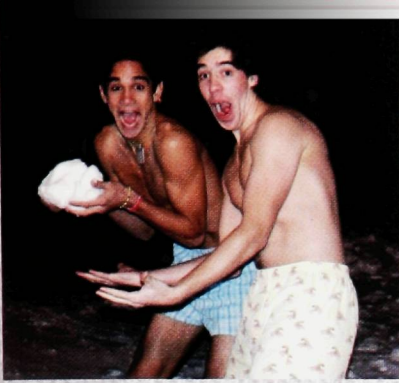

Matt, Smith House BU, is being admired in the common room by all the girls on campus and Mr. Crowther is busy cleaning the Carnival flag, after a century of waiting.

Mr. Kelso is busy dusting the Senior Boys Cross Country flag and shield. As all of this is going on, Mr. Liverpool waits patiently for his shirtless prey to come around the corner so he can Five Star them on the back.

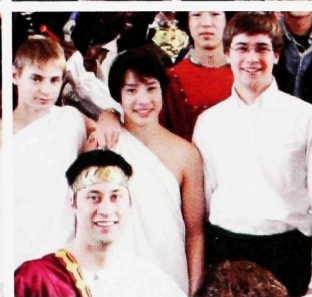

When it is all said and done, the Smith Boys always unite, and are prepared for glory!!

SPRING SPECIAL EVENTS

Round Square Events...

The Walk Against Hunger

After a stark, honest, yet hopeful presentation from L'Action Contre Faim, the entire school walked or ran in order to raise money for this charitable organization.

They are dedicated to helping to sustain clean water, systems of agriculture, and a non-invasive form of rescue for those parts of the world suffering from malnutrition.

Round Square Conference in Gordonstoun

Michael Tsatsoulis, Mel Wood, and David Gelles represented the school at the Conference, held in Scotland this year.

Ecuador Service Project

Sarah Mastalir and Sophie O'Reilly travelled to Ecuador and the Galapagos Islands during their Spring semester.

The Hunger Dinner

This simulation works very well in showing the state of the world and its food supply. A small percentage of students get a fancy meal. A few more get the basics. The majority get a small plate of white rice, indicative of the real life percentages of those who have and those who have not.

Internationalism, Democracy, Environment, Adventure, Leadership, Service

World Cup Soccer

By far the most colorful day at BCS, next to Carnival. Teams affiliate by country or friends of that nation. Competitive yes, but also deep in the spirit of Internationalism, and just a great time to be had by all.

I would like to thank my teachers and staff members for helping me get through all my years at BCS. I also want to say a special thanks to Sarah B., Claudia C., Jae-Won C., Angel A. and Sophie O., those who have been with me, my whole time at BCS.

Finally, I would like to thank my French buddies Julien B. and David C. who made my last year the best.

Francis-Carl Belanger

Sarah Bernard

5 years already - scary. I can still remember the first day of school, feels like yesterday. I was a tomboy (100% from Thetford Mines- and no, I don't live in the mines).

I just want to thank everyone for the great times and memories, especially FB JB CC MP AL MT and Angel. A special thx to my brother, Megu (my lovely roommate 4 yrs), Madame Forest, and Koula for always being there for me! Keep smiling!

Sarah Bernard

Julien Bernatchez

Alright guys. Just wanna let you know I'll miss chillin with you. Chapman Boys, thanks for being my brothers for those 2 years. Mr. Jackson, thanks a lot for making me realise that music is my passion. Hope to see you all again. Take it easy on Saturday.

Seung Jin (Agatha) Kim

I definitely got healthier and became muscular since I came to BCS. For each break my parents didn't recognize me at the airport. Now I'm able to control my sister in physical ways, even though she is twice taller than I am. And thank you to my roomies, Eliane and Tomomi, for waking me up in the morning. It was no use of my alarm clock.

I'm worried about how I am gonna get up from this September.

Laura Logan-Chesney

My two years at BCS have been unforgettable! To all my teachers, coaches and Mrs. H, thanks for the knowledge and support.

To friends, I will miss you but will never forget the awesome times. And finally my family, thanks for this amazing opportunity. Undergrads, enjoy these years and to all the grads, good luck and have fun!

I hope to see you again!

Julie Luc-Turgeon

Well, I was here for only 3 years, met some interesting people along the way aka. CHL, R-No, CML, AE-T, AO, SAD, PF, BW; you guys helped me out so much, I love you all.

Everything was worth it, from the dances that would get interesting by the end of the night, to laughing hundreds of times for no reason.

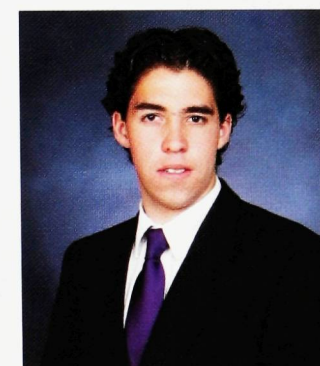

Take care; I hope we keep in touch.

This one year in BCS was one of the best in my life. I don't know where I should start... is it the Mexican candy or the pizza on the weekends. Maybe it is the "Hurry up guys in the shower because whoever was on duty slept too long"? I'm gonna miss all of that but the most will be all my friends. I want to come back but I can't so I wish all of you good luck.

Love you guys

Fares al Haffar

This year has been different, but thanks to all my teachers and friends it has been an easy transition filled with good memories. I want to thank the boys from North especially Sam, Sebast, Phil, Jon and Vasken for all the great laughs. And I want to thank my fellow students Andy, Neil, Max, Ben, Chris, Aidan, Sadie, Brody, Allen, Mike T and G for the good times. Run wit it, RUN!!! We are winning...

Karim al Haffar

A big thanx to my parents for giving me the opportunity to come here. As I leave BCS, I leave behind all the memories, and the good times we had together. I would like to wish a good luck to all McN boys, J-HC, BS, RC, AB, EM, AE, KH, JZ, RD, J-HK, DG. And especially Paige, ur a great girl, I will never forget u. Well... everything has an end, now that I am leaving, I hope u good luck in ur life, (K)(L)(K).

Loic Durand

It's that time to say good-bye and I can say I'll deeply miss BCS. Here are a couple of thanks (the list goes on forever): M-S, Dr. Booth, Chuck, Monica & Glen, Jacques, Leger, all the teachers I ever had, Earl, Jared, Chris, anyone who helped me, Mr Evans for letting me back, Major Tessier, all my friends...

Finally I must thank my parents for sending me here. All the best for my sister and M-S next year.

Loic Durand

Andrew Ewing

After 5 yrs its finally come to an end. I would like to thank all the boys: SM, MPST, CT, NM, SH, PH, AB, JC, FA, SG, HM, LL. Good times. Good luck to all the returning 6th formers keep up the tradition. Thanks to my parents and grand mother for this opportunity. Thanks to the teachers that have put up with me through the years and all the McNaughton boys I have known.

RIP J&H

Rebecca Garner

Elinor, you kept me sane - I love you more than we love showers. Together we will finish off the juice. You have been the best roommate, friend and psychiatrist I ever thought I could find in this world. Thanks to my fellow Drama Geeks: Thea + Charles + Rebecca = love. (Ryan too). Best advice to all: keep your friends close, and your enemies closer. For all those who I won't miss: one day I will be President of the World. I'll show you. (Leger will be my Third-in-Command.) Good night.

"Oh, the places you will go!" It's not just a children's book anymore, its a promise! Thanks to Julie, I will "soar to high heights". Thanks to Mr. Rae, I'll "start happening too". To all of my friend over the years, thank you for teaching me that the grass is greener all around. Thank you to those who never gave up on me as hard as it may have been - you are the ones who gave me a dream.

Alison Henderson

Sebastian Heyerhoff

Like the great Biggie Smalls once said "It was all a dream". Thanks to my boys: Philli, SM, FH, JC, NM, AE, CT, Max, AB, AM, Gritz, G, Brody stay true. JOLLY and GREEN! To my parents: Thanks for your support, you raised me right.

Rest in Peace to Jimmy and Hannah, I haven't forgotten.

Dipset, holla at me.

Charles Kouri

Five things I will never forget about BCS:

1. The Ross House spirit stick!
2. Chicken fingers...or summin or nuffin.
3. A lot of people... too many to mention.
4. Grease (and those other plays)
5. MADAAAM (Frizzle)

And now, to be simply random, here's a quote:

"Only the gentle are ever really strong." -James Dean

Charles Kouri

Elinor Kruse

Sweetness?

The memories I'll keep are those of the few people who contributed some brightness every day. To the stump rest: maybe you'll find the light at the end of the tunnel. We like it there. Mel: I love you, go find yourself! Rebecca: you're the second body to my soul. Fourth (last but not least...), blood-orange juice will be scarce one day. Spartans don't like bagels, right?

Graduation 2007

It starts with a procession down the catwalk. It follows with awards and prizes and giving credit where credit is due.

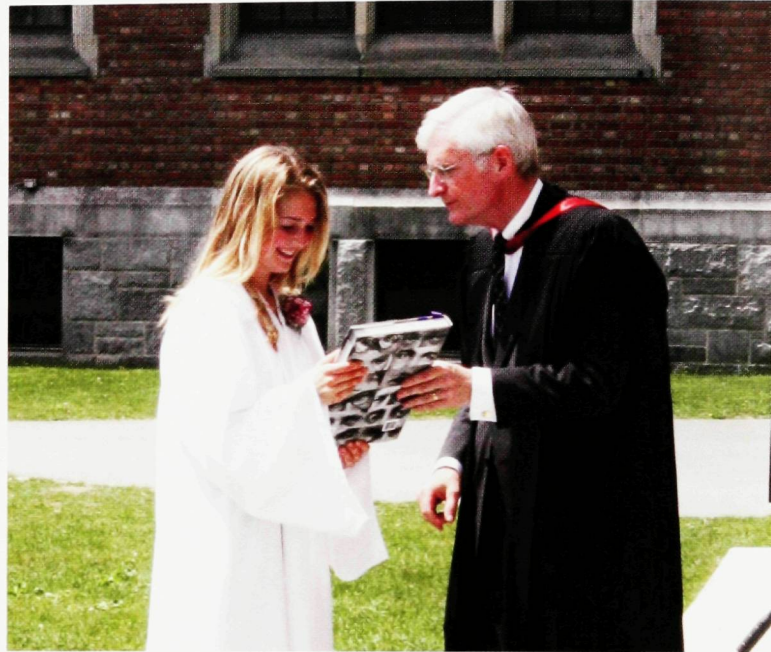

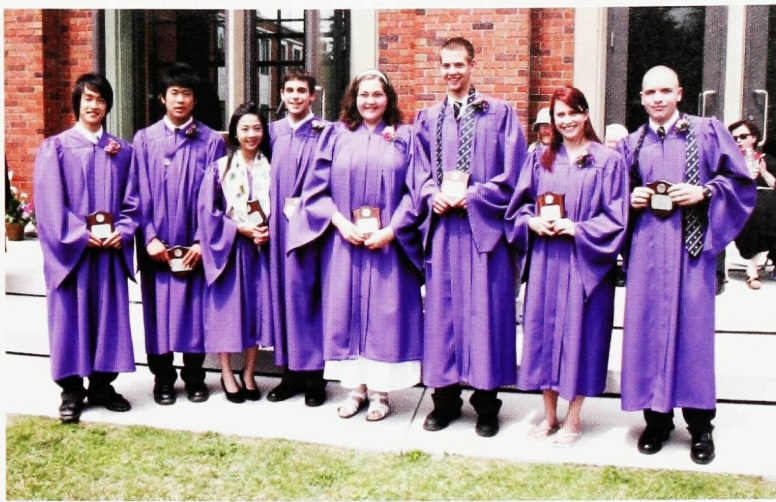

...and in the end...

Then that ever important piece of paper. Goodbyes follow. Some dinner and dancing at the Ritz Carleton. And then, your whole life...the world...
